It's been a long day at your job, whatever that might be. Who knew being an adult was this exhausting? You're glad to be able to relax in your home, located in a statically average, mid-size American city.

There's a strange energy in the town tonight. The news was full of unusual incidents—disturbances at the local cemetery, unidentified lights in the sky, capsized boats in the river, rolling blackouts, and what some even claimed was an earthquake.

"Ridiculous," you think to yourself. "There hasn't been an earthquake in this area for decades." You get off the couch, throwing away an old Post-It note.

You turn off the evening news, stretch, and look at the clock. It's 10:47 pm. You're about to get ready for bed when you hear a strange noise outside.

Your cock your ear, trying to listen for where the noise is coming from.

“What is that,” you think to yourself. “Kind of a scratching, growling, earth moving, buzzing, water sloshing kind of noise...I think?”

You can't tell where it's coming from. You'd better investigate further.
